Using Facebook Page Directory, you can find company, fan and personal pages, provided that their safety sections allow research. In fact, you may be surprised at how much information on your page is visible to everyone, whether you have a Facebook account or not. It is also possible to use the Facebook page directory to find companies, people and places. Open a new web browser window and go to Facebook.com. If you have not made the access, the page displays a registration form and Facebook benefits, but no research fields. Scroll to the bottom of the page. You will see a list of links in the morepage above copyright notice. Click on the "Pages" link to open the Facebook Pages directory. By default, the "Pages" tab opens for corporate and fan pages. Click on the "Profile" "Profile" if you want to find your personal profile page. You can also find a city page Click the "Places" tab. Type the name of the page in the "Search" field If you are looking for your personal profile or a fan page, this should be the name you use for that page. For example, if you use a nickname instead of your name on Facebook, type the nickname. Click "Search" Scan search results for your page. The business or fan pages are listed first, followed by personal profiles. If you do not see your page, click on the "View more results" link at the bottom list. Click the name of your page to open it. If it is a fan page, what you see is that people see if they didn't like your page. If it is a personal profile, this is what people see if they are not friends of Facebook. Teaching children to read is an important part of their lives. When children need to practice more reading, it is useful to have worksheets available. You can find an assortment of readable worksheets that can be printed for free and sold on different websites. Teachers' websitesThere are several teachers' websites where it is possible to download reading comprehension worksheets that they have created for their classes. An advantage of using these worksheets that have been designed for specific reading levels and have been tested in a classroom. Many follow the formats used in state and local tests that measure capacity to read. Teachers sometimes include anecdotal notes and tips to make worksheets more effective. Textbook publishers, education research and professional development books sometimes offer worksheets on their websites. These worksheets are usually examples of books they publish in. enoisnerpmoc .enoisnerpmoc id ednamod e icifary irotazzinagro ilg rep bew its orol ia ataihccóanu iad .ocificeps orbil nu id aruttel al etnarud inoizaticrese ertla odnacrec iats eS .irbil orol i noc israippocca rep oroval id ilgof onocudorp etlov a orbil led irotide ilG .otunetnoc li amirpetna ni erazzilausiv retop ad of traditional worksheets and homeschool in digital books organized by the reading level. Many of these collections are themed of gender or topic. It simplifies the selection of worksheets that correspond to the child's interest or to build basic knowledge in specific areas. Resources for users, based on the fact that you are a teacher or a parent, Teacher Resources Websites are another option to find reading worksheets. Some sites such as teachers pay teachers allow teachers to load work sheets who have created and offer them for sale. Others are more collaborative and offer teachers a place to share the best practices and materials with others. If you are looking for materials to be used in a homechool environment or for the practice of after-school, take a look at these sites. In addition to the worksheets, you get access to a community of educators who can help you find the right materials for your children. Literacy literacy programs offer free work sheets for parents and teachers. Although they are usually designed for use with the company's program, you can use them for other lessons. For example, the Reading Horizons company has downloadable phonetics sheets that work with its digital phonetics program and face-to-face lessons. English students are other good sources. Since these programs are oriented towards children who learn the English language, they incorporate lessons of social studies and sciences together with the reading skills.
